AUSTIN MURDER IS REVIVED

Three Are Burned To Death in Texas Apartment House

Eight Others In Building Make Escape Without Injury

2 COLLEGE STUDENTS Bodies Found Partially Clothed—Apparently Had Suffocated

ABELINE, Tex., May 29.—(AP)—Three men were burned to death in a fire which destroyed an apartment house in the downtown section of this city early today. Eight others were inside the building when the fire broke out, but escaped uninjured. The dead are: Harvey Sprinkle, 21, and Bernard Love, of Melrose, and Roy Thomas, 28, of Abilene. Sprinkle and Love attended a business college here, and were to have been graduated next week. Thomas was an employee of a country club. The three men were found in a corner on the second floor of a sleeping porch partly clothed, apparently they were overcome by smoke when two of the men tried to arouse the third. Origin of the fire could not be immediately determined.

Conferrees Agreed To Flexible Clause

New Proposal Would Broaden Powers of President

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—The conferrees on the tariff bill agreed to the new flexible provision which would broaden powers of the president, and restrict the authority of the tariff commission. The new proposal would give authority to the tariff commission to recommend or decrease it in rate up to 50 per cent, and the president could approve it or either let it lap for enactment. The conferrees would not be required to disapprove a commission's findings if the president saw fit, as was required under the original plan. The report was placed in the senate today, and action will soon be taken, it is expected.

Texarkana Gas Rate Hearing Is Arranged

TEXARKANA, Ark., May 29.—(AP)—A hearing on the Texarkana (Texas) gas rate will be held before the Texas Railroad Commission today. Another hearing before the Texarkana (Ark.) City Council is scheduled for Saturday. Controversy over the gas rates in the two cities has been in progress for nearly a year. The Southern Cities Distributing company is seeking increased rates. Recently Texarkana, Ark., granted a separate franchise to another company which also has a separate franchise pending before the Texarkana (Texas) City Council. Former Gov. Pat M. Neff, chairman of the Railroad Commission, and Lon A. Smith, a member of the Texas commission, were expected to arrive here.

"Last Man To Toast Comrades" of '61 In Mist of 33 Chairs

STILLWATER, Minn., May 29.—(AP)—The campfire smolders—ashes fall. The clouds are black against the sky. No tap of drums, no bugle call. My comrades, all, goodbye. Standing alone among 33 empty chairs, black-draped about a weirdly festive table, a tired old man, prideless winner of a race against death, will recite the above toast here on July 21. He will act the final dramatic chapter of a tale of young and rollicking fighting men who 45 years ago formed the now famous "Last Man's Club" of civil war veterans. A sip of vinegar that was once good, bright Burgundy—the bond will have been fulfilled and the "Last Man's Club" will reach its destiny of dissolution. A Jest With Death The grim plan with laid in 1885. Recently, with jest and song and a touch of red wine. Charles Lockwood of Chamberlain, S. D., is now the last man. He is 87. The old musty ball-room of the Sawyer house, once the pride of Stillwater, will be opened for the event, its cracked walls covered with flags, although it has been closed for many years. "To my comrades!" Lockwood will address his toast. Comrades they

75-Year-Old Widow Becomes 13th Wife

FORREST CITY, Ark., May 29.—(AP)—A 75-year-old widow became the 13th wife of H. W. Fisher, 90-year-old confederate veteran, who were married Sunday afternoon, following his divorce Saturday. Squire E. B. McCutcheon, who tied the nuptial knot between Fisher and Mrs. Francis Anne Croeland, announced the wedding today. They are the oldest couple ever to marry in St. Francis county. "This is my 13th wife!" Dad Fisher told Squire McCutcheon. "And she makes the best biscuits a man ever flapped his lip over." "She is a fine worker and a good housekeeper. I'm so happy I don't know what to do," Fisher added.

Kiwanis Club To Visit Washington

Program Arranged at the School House at 8 P. M. Friday

Citizens of Washington and the immediate vicinity have been invited to attend a program Friday night at 8 o'clock at their school house, which has been arranged by the Kiwanis club of Hope. This is one of a series of good-will trips which have been undertaken by the Hope civic club, to become acquainted with the Hope trade territory, and to help bring about a more harmonious relationship between the city of Hope and those whose patronage Hope wishes to secure. The Rev. Francis A. Buddin is to have charge of the entertainment; and one of the best programs of the series is anticipated. Little Miss Joy Ramsey is to give two athletic dance numbers. John P. Cox is to deliver the address of the evening. The Rev. W. P. Harman will entertain, and the Washington quartet will render several numbers. Kiwanians will leave Hotel Barlow at 7:30 Friday night, in order to arrive at Washington well in advance of the starting hour.

Hoover Vetoes Bill on Spanish War Pensions

WASHINGTON, May 29.—(AP)—President Hoover Wednesday vetoed the pension bill establishing a new basis of pension for Spanish war veterans. Asserting his belief in proper discharge of the national obligation to men who have served in war and become disabled and are in need, the chief executive said in returning the bill to the senate that certain principles were included which he considered opposed to the interest both of the war veterans and the public. "In the whole of our pension legislation over past year," the president said, "we have excluded from such national awards persons whose disabilities arise from vicious habits." He said that bill breaks down that exclusion and opens the door for claims of disability incurred at any time in the life of the pensioner arising from certain types of disease, alcoholism, drug habits and the like.

Quantity Output For Ford Farms Urged by Ford

DETROIT, May 29.—(AP)—The short-cut to relief from the present business depression, in the opinion of Henry Ford, is an intensive development of agriculture and manufacture. "This is not just a fanciful idea," Mr. Ford told the Associated Press today. "It is the way out of stagnation." Coupling with this statement that it will take just as long to get rid of the depression as it took to accumulate it, Mr. Ford added: "We need to keep up the people's spirit and you cannot do that with talk; you must do it by action. One expenditure made in faith in the future is worth all the words any one can say. Issuing optimistic statements on the one hand and lowering wages on the other is a sure way to prevent betterment. This is no time to lower wages. Those who are lowering wages now don't know what they're doing. They are hitting the country when she is down. They will see the time when wages will be higher than they ever have been."

Annual Visiting Day At Station Set For June 20

More Than 2000 Expected To Be Present From Many Counties

PROGRAM IS PLANNED

Meeting Will Afford Opportunity To Exchange Ideas

Friday, June 20, has been set for annual visiting day at the University of Arkansas, College of Agriculture, Fruit and Truck Branch Experiment Station, Hope, Arkansas, states G. W. Ware, assistant director, in charge. Approximately 1500 people were present at visitors' day last year, and 2000 or more are expected this year from over half the counties of the state. The program is so planned as to give all men and women visitors present something of interest and value. The great variety of experiments with fruit, truck and field crops will be inspected and explained by a score of the State's leading agriculturists. Timely and instructive demonstration will be conducted, covering many phases of farm and home activities. To meeting will afford all present a wonderful opportunity to meet and swap ideas with the leading farmers and business men of the state. The Experiment Station urges you to bring your family and lunch and spend the day.

Duvall Purkins Is Kiwanis Speaker

Will Address Graduating Class of High School Tonight

Duvall Purkins of Warren, made a stirring appeal for good citizenship to the members of the Hope Kiwanis club, at their regular meeting at Hotel Barlow Thursday noon. Mr. Purkins, who is state senator from his district, is to deliver the commencement address of Hope high school graduates at the city hall tonight. He was graduated from Hope high school 20 years ago, at which time he delivered the valedictory address, it was reported. He is now engaged in the practice of law in Warren, and is publisher of the Warren Eagle-Democrat. He called attention to some individual instances of widespread publicity caused by the large size of the watermelons grown in his home county. He pointed out some of the advantages of present-day civilization and asked whether citizens of such a good town did not owe an obligation of service to the community of which they were a part. The Rev. Francis A. Buddin had charge of the program. Final preparations were made for the good-will tour to Washington Friday night were completed at the noon meeting. The date was changed from Thursday because of other attractions in Hope and in Washington Thursday night. Plans for making a good-will tour to Washington in the near future were initiated. Then, Okay will be the next point of call. Several members of the club, including Frank May, C. W. Weltman and others, left after the luncheon hour for Prescott where they are to assist in organizing a Kiwanis club. They expect to secure several charter members on this trip. Both teams have tied for points up to date in the contest for attendance and new memberships, according to Parks Fisher, secretary.

Stamps Rotary Is Given Party Here

Hope Club Entertains on First Birthday of Visiting Club

The entire membership of the Stamps Rotary club journeyed to Hope last night for a birthday party given in their honor at Hotel Barlow by the local Rotary club. It turned out to be one of the most enjoyable inter-city meetings ever held in the sixth state district of Rotary, the local club presenting an extensive entertainment program, to which the Stamps members and their wives responded. The Rotary-Anns of both clubs were much in evidence, and one of the most interesting and amusing program features was built around the Rotarian as he appears at home. C. S. Lowthorp delivered an address on the rights which women don't have, and was getting on famously with his speech when Mrs. E. F. McFaddin arose and disputed some of his facts. Mr. Lowthorp graciously apologized. Mrs. Frank Ward made the second interruption in behalf of the ladies. Mr. Lowthorp was then just on the point of becoming heckled by all the Rotarian-Anns of both clubs when Mrs. Lowthorp arose and took command of the situation. Another sketch was furnished by Erwin Young, who, delegated to make some kind of a presentation speech to the visiting club's president, Rudy Hays, made a stem-winder for five minutes—and then, advancing toward the speaker's table with a tray carrying a glass pitcher and six glasses, slipped and fell down in the middle of the floor. John Martin appeared in black-face as a Rotarian from Chicago anxious to make up his attendance in Hope. Upon questioning from President E. F. McFaddin of the Hope club, he revealed that what he really carried was all the favors and prizes for the party, which were then distributed. These included a magnificent cake, baked by Mrs. R. V. Herndon of Hope, as a gift to one of the visiting Rotary-Anns; and a box of cigars for a visiting Rotarian.

Census Staff Wins Thanks of Stevens

Congratulations on the completion of the Fifteenth Decennial Census has been extended to the corps of enumerators in the Hope territory by J. Warren Stevens, district supervisor, of Texarkana. In a letter addressed to Jim Boardman, enumerator in charge of the industrial division, Mr. Stevens wrote: "The success of the 15th Decennial Census just closed rested in great measure with the enumerators, and since the work in this district has been finished I congratulate myself upon having had the co-operation and support of a corps of enumerators like yourself who were imbued with the idea of service and loyalty."

Fair Program Is Being Completed

Annual Event Will Start Sept. 12—Will Last One Week

The finishing touches are now being put on the daily programs for the annual Southwest Arkansas Fair to be held in this city September 22 to 27 inclusive, according to announcements from the fair management. One of the most elaborate programs of the week will be the opening program Monday evening, September 22. This program will include a big program of fireworks, a splendid program of free acts and hipodrome acts and the formal opening ceremonies which will include the coronation of the Queen of the Fair. The queen will be selected in a contest to be conducted in the several counties comprising this district. Tuesday, September 23, has been designated as Aviation Day and the program will be devoted largely to this important industry. The program will include all kinds of stunt flying, parachute drops and formation flying. A re-union of Civil war veterans will also be a feature of the program on this date. Wednesday, September 24, will be Dairy and Poultry Day as well as Music Day. Thursday, September 25, has been set aside as Missouri Pacific Day, Louisiana & Arkansas Day and Frisco Day. Each of these companies has accepted an invitation to participate in the program on this day and each has agreed to enter an exhibit as one of the educational features of the fair. Friday, September 26, will be Educational Day. The big features of the program on this day will be a grand parade of school children in which any school in Southwest Arkansas may participate; a college football game in which the A. & M. College "Maidens" of Magnolia and the Texarkana Junior College "Bulldogs" will participate; a high school football game between teams representing the Magnolia High school and the Hope High school. Saturday, the closing day of the fair will be Amusement Day and the fair management announces that the program on this day will be one of the best programs of the week. Detailed daily programs will be announced at a later date.

Body With Wire Around Neck, Found In River

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—The body of a woman, whose finger bore a diamond ring and about whose neck a copper wire was drawn tightly, was found today in Harlem river, a few blocks from the Yankee stadium. Police estimated that the corpse had been in the water for two months or more. About the wrist of the woman, a white gold watch was found, and the ring set contained nine diamonds and two sapphires.

CONWAY, May 29.—Dr. L. M. Sipes has been made vice president of Central College here. Since resigning as pastor of the First Baptist church of Little Rock last year he has served as Bible instructor and field representative of the college.

Next 'Trade Day' To Be Held Here Thursday, July 3

Attendance Only Fair Yesterday But Regarded Successful

HEIFER INTRODUCED

Merchants Carry Out Feature of Dairy Program

A fair-sized crowd considering agricultural conditions which kept most of the farm population busy in the field, was brought to Hope yesterday for the first Trade Day event of 1930. The event was well supported by members of the Hope Retail Merchants association, and was advertised over four southwestern counties. Although bad weather intervening between the plans for the event and the actual date, reduced the attendance, officials of the Merchants association expressed the belief that Hope's business houses and their advertised bargains in quality and price had gotten before the people of the outlying territory in a most favorable manner. At a meeting of the board of directors late yesterday the association voted to continue the Trade Day series. The next event will be held Thursday, July 3. Much interest centered yesterday in the pure-bred Jersey heifer which was purchased by the Merchants association and put on display at Second and Main streets. The merchants are attempting to aid the dairy program in Hempstead county, and another heifer is expected to be introduced here on July 3.

Magnolia Man Is Found Dead

L. D. Kemner Is Overcome by Automobile Gas Fumes

MAGNOLIA, May 29.—(AP)—L. D. Kemner, aged 58, manager of the Waldo Fertilizer company, died at the steering wheel of his automobile while it was parked in his garage this morning, apparently the victim of gas fumes. He was found slumped in the seat of his automobile by his wife who's attention was attracted to the garage by a negro cook who told her that the motor had been running for nearly an hour.

Oklahomans Indicted for Selling Jamaica Ginger

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 29.—(AP)—Six persons were indicted here Wednesday by a Federal grand jury in connection with the sale of Jamaica ginger, which, medical authorities said, was responsible for scores of cases of a paralysis-like malady in the Southwest. Guy Simpson, Holdenville drug store owner, was held in jail. Bond was set at $35,000. Doyle H. Hooper, another Holdenville drug store operator, was released on $30,000 bond. Others indicted were E. B. Haney, Turner West and Wellman Porter, all drug clerks and Mrs. Rose Simpson, wife of Guy Simpson. The indictments were returned under the Hastings act which prohibits the introduction of intoxicating liquor into Indian country. The maximum penalty for violation of the act is two years imprisonment and a $500 fine.

Gold Star Mothers Start Home Friday

PARIS, May 29.—(AP)—One hundred and twenty-seven gold star mothers left Paris this forenoon for Cherbourg, where tomorrow they will board the steamship President Harding for home. Two mothers, one from the north, and one from the south, spoke their thanks at leaving for courtesies they had been extended here, and for the government arranging their trip to the battle fields of their dead sons.

Prize Winner

For making a long story short, pretty Miss Lucille Esmon, above, a sophomore at Hendrix-Henderson College, Conway, Ark., was recently awarded the Dr. J. C. Greene gold prize. Her story, "The Long and Short of It," was published in the college publication, and adjudged the best news feature-subscribed, the evolution of women's fashions from 1907 to the present.

Woman Is Held for Death of Husband

Alleged Slayer First Reported Husband Killed By Robbers

PALLADEGA, Ala., May 29.—(AP)—Mrs. W. C. Gunn, of Sylachigh, was lodged in jail here today on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the slaying of her 51-year old husband, a filling station operator, while they were en route to Jacksonville, Ala. A coroner's jury held that her husband came to his death from pistol wounds inflicted into his body from a pistol, which was held in Mrs. Gunn's hands, and that she was guilty of murder. Mrs. Gunn, after the shooting, two miles south of Oxford Monday night, drove with her husband's body to Oxford and reported to officers that three highwaymen held them up and killed her husband. Officers at first said Mrs. Gunn had shot one of the holdup men, but later Mrs. Gunn said the bandits robbed them after snatching a small pistol between Mr. Gunn and herself.

Would Resign If Proven He Promised Offices

JACKSON, Miss., May 29.—Governor Bilbo Wednesday offered to resign "if any senator truthfully can say" that he used pending appointments to state offices to influence votes for Lester C. Franklin, chairman of the State Tax Commission, against whom impeachment charges, preferred by the House were dismissed in the Senate Court of Impeachment last week. He intimated that some 40 appointments to be made by him, and which must be made by the Senate, will not go to the Senate until Saturday.

Ladies of Auxiliary Post Will Sell Poppies On Streets Here

Annual Poppy Day will be observed in this city Saturday with the Ladies Auxiliary of Leslie Huddleston American Legion Post selling poppies on the streets of Hope in order to raise funds for the carrying on of the American Legion work in this district. Many ladies and girls of this city will be on the streets all day Saturday with their flowers and money boxes. No set price will be made for the poppies but citizens are urged to give as much as they see fit—keeping in mind the flowers are emblems of service the American soldiers rendered for their country during the World war. When the ladies approach you Saturday, don't fail to buy a poppy and give whatever you desire. All of the money derived from the sale will be used to benefit disabled war veterans. Critical Days Recalled Be mindful of the heroic sacrifices made by the gallant young men who gave their lives in defense of our country and its ideals of freedom and democracy in the World war, and of the great debt of gratitude which America owes to those who returned broken in body and handicapped for the remainder of their lives. Be patriotic—think of the critical days of 1917 and 1918, recall the spirit of those times—help the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the fallen by buying poppies, to be sold on the streets here Saturday—and wear these flowers which so fittingly symbolize the sacrifice of those men who gave their all.

Jewel Thieves In New York Linked With Hot Springs

AUSTIN CASE ECHO

May Connect Prisoner With Slaying of Texas Cattleman

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—Police here today announced the "safety" deposit boxes held by Robert Nelson, and believed to contain $200,000 in jewels, had been found in the First National bank of Chicago. Gems valued at $1 million dollars were found in Nelson's deposit box here Tuesday. It is being held, charged with receiving stolen goods.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(AP)—A telegram from Hot Springs, Ark., received by New York police today asking that two men who were arrested here last week be held for Hot Springs authorities. The men wanted are George Cole and James Watson, the latter being a police describe as the leader of a country-wide band of jewel thieves.

Although the telegram gave details of the charges against the men, it is assumed they are wanted for questioning in connection with the killing last September of Preston Austin, wealthy cattleman and banker of Victoria, Texas.

When Cole was arrested here, he was found with a pair of white gloves stained and a bill from the Hot Springs hotel was also found in his possession.

Police In Doubt

HOT SPRINGS, May 29.—(AP)—Though Hot Springs police wish New York authorities to hold George Cole and James Watson, they are doubtful if the two men can be connected with the robbery and subsequent death of Preston Austin, wealthy cattleman in a Hot Springs hotel room here last fall. They expressed doubt if Cole and Watson had anything to do with the robbery and death.

Police here said Austin was not shot and killed, but was choked to death and tied to his bed. His death was the result of strangulation while attempting to free himself. They also said no blood was shed, and expressed doubt if the pair of blood stained trousers found in possession of the men could figure in the affair.

Austin was robbed of a large diamond ring. An extensive search for the robbers and slayer has been in progress since last fall and a reward totaling $10,000 for apprehension of the thieves has been offered.

El Dorado Man Dies From Wounds

EL DORADO, May 29.—(AP)—One man, an alleged bootlegger, was dead today and two others were being held in jail here on a charge of first degree murder as the result of what police said "was a fight over a woman," which occurred yesterday.

J. Liard, aged about 45, an alleged bootlegger, died in a hospital here early today from head injuries received in a fight with Eugene Slaughter and Paul Craine yesterday. Although details of the fight are vague, the argument, police say, started over Grace Lawrence, friend of the victim. Liard's injuries were caused by heavy blows of a piece of wood.

A University of Crime

THE Chicago police picked up a bomber the other day. Lodged in his cell, the man proved willing to talk about his criminal career. He admitted having been involved in many bombings in Chicago; and then, asked where he had learned how to use bombs, he made this significant remark:

"In prison I met a bunch of safe blowers. They told me all about cooking dynamite to get the nitro out of it. I thought it would be great to be a safe blower, and I also heard there were plenty of chances for bombers in Chicago."

The penitentiary this man had been imprisoned in, before his plunge into the career of making and setting off "pineapples," was the Ohio penitentiary, whose miserable antiquity has since been revealed to all the world by the fire that killed 320 of its inmates.

There is food for a lot of thought in what that man said.

Ohio's prison suffered from the same complaint that afflicts most American prisons; the state legislators hated to spend any money on it, and an indifferent public was quite content to acquiesce in that policy. Money spent on prisons seemed to be money wasted, anyhow. Why put up the tax rate to provide thieves, robbers and murderers with a comfortable place to sleep?

The result was that Ohio's prison was jammed to the doors. It had nearly three times as many inmates as it should have had. They were lodged two and three to a cell. There was not nearly enough work to keep them busy. Hundreds of them were heaped into the "idle house" each day and left to their own devices.

Inevitably, then, this penitentiary became a veritable university in crime. This particular man went in for carrying concealed weapons. He came out a skilled safecracker and bomber. There must have been scores of cases like his.

In this instance it was Chicago that reaped the evil fruit and not Ohio. But Ohio has paid for it in other cases. The police of cities like Cleveland, Cincinnati and Toledo have had plenty of trouble from men who were turned into confirmed criminals by Ohio's penitentiary.

The poorest sort of economy a state can practice is the misguided kind that skimps on prison appropriations.

Unfortunately It Will Not Work

A PROPOSAL of the University of Wisconsin faculty to permit only students of more than average ability and application to continue their studies beyond the sophomore year receives the endorsement of the Memphis Commercial Appeal which sees in it a solution of the problem of mounting university budgets and lowered intellectual and educational standards, says the Blytheville Courier News.

The invasion of college campuses by misfits threatens to reduce higher education to a plane of extravagant recreation, says the Commercial Appeal.

"Everywhere it is recognized that an appalling percentage of the registrants do not belong in college. They come because it is the thing to do, or because their parents are able to send them, or because they want to round out adolescence with a romantic fling before going to work."

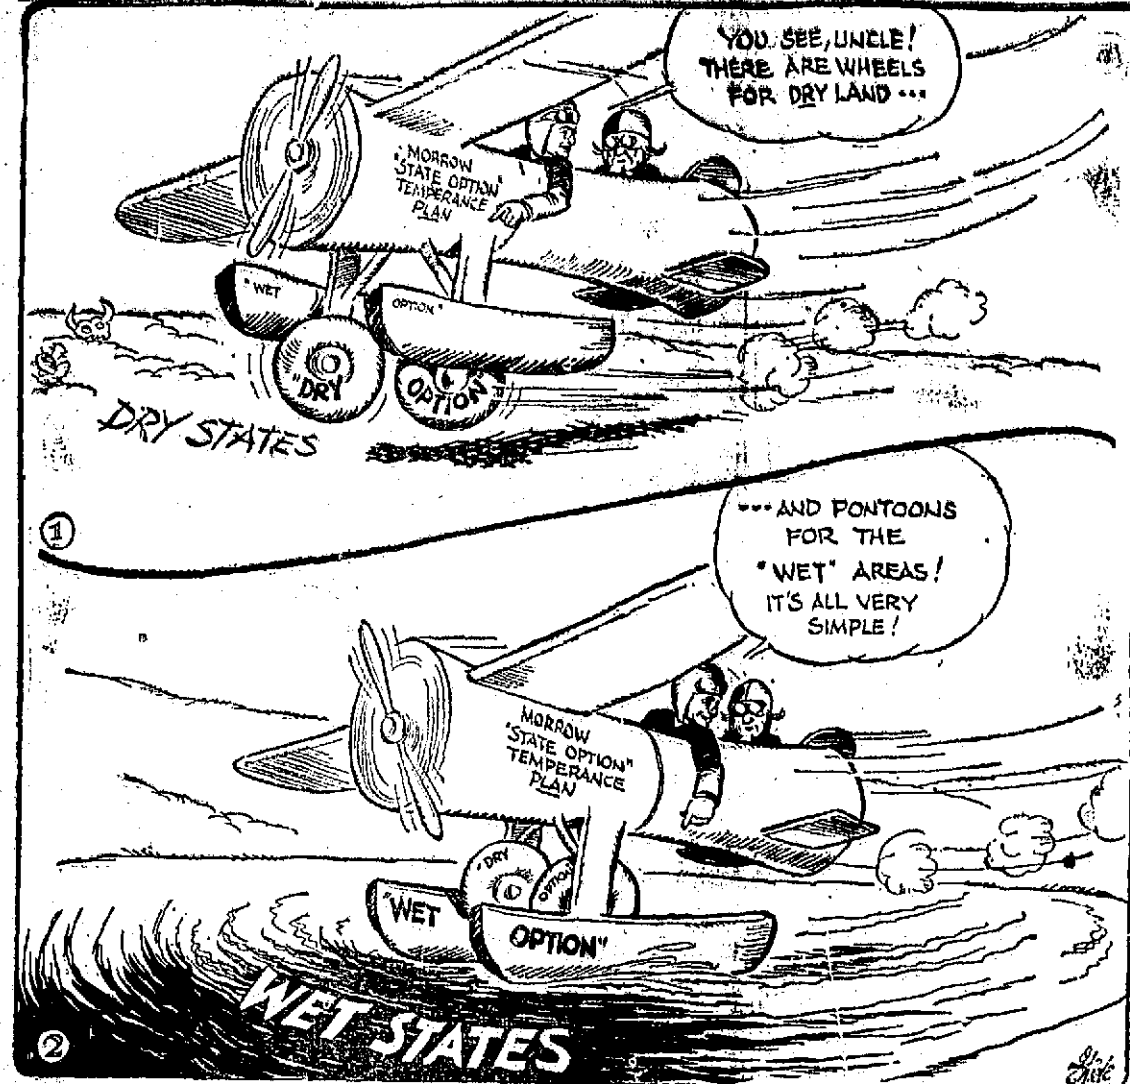

All very true, but if the faculty of the University of Wisconsin and the Commercial Appeal's editorial writer think that the advantage of tax supported institutions can be confined to an intellectual aristocracy they had better think again.

Just imagine, if you will, the furor that would ensue when Banker Jones' boy John, and Fred Smith, whose father is the political boss of the untenth district, and Mary Elizabeth, daughter of a wealthy and influential manufacturer, together with hundreds more of the kind of boys and girls who fill our university classrooms, were sent packing home at the end of their second year with the tag of mental mediocrity.

High intellectual achievement, it is true, is not the goal of the majority of the university students, but neither, dear reader, is it what the majority of fathers and mothers desire for their children. The latter, almost to the same degree as their offspring, want social advantages, the prestige of a college degree, contacts that will prove of practical value in after life, and they are entitled to demand and get these things of institutions for which they pay the bills.

State universities cannot insist upon standards above the aspiration of the people they serve. The best they can do is to provide opportunities for the really serious students, and just do the best they can with the rest of them.

Demonstrating His New Amphibian!

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NBA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—It does not seem to be much of a secret anywhere that the Hoover administration has not yet put on that burst of speed which all its friends anticipated.

The president may yet live up to his old reputation as a superman, but it isn't panning out that way just now. One of the favorite subjects of political diagnosis in Washington concerns what's the matter with the Hoover administration. Politicians, business men, and newspapermen are all interested in the subject.

Not All His Fault.

Much of the unfavorable reaction is based on things that aren't Hoover's fault at all. Very few hold him responsible for the business situation or for the low price of wheat. It is also argued for the president that he has made no really serious mistakes in office which are bound to leave their marks against him, although there are matters such as his selection of Claudius Huston as Republican national chairman and of Judge Parker as a supreme court justice which are regarded as rather unfortunate. And it is further suggested that the voters in the mass are not dissatisfied with him; that Hoover was sold to the country over a period of 12 years and that he is not likely, possessing the prestige that always goes with the presidency, to be "unsold" in a few months.

Nevertheless, the fact that Hoover is making no great hit with anyone and that important elements in his political and journalistic support have been turning sour on him is not to be ignored. It is an important and not encouraging fact that not only does Hoover fail to fight for himself, but that there isn't anyone in Congress or elsewhere both qualified and willing to put up a real fight for the administration.

In some strange manner Hoover has managed to stir up an unusually active dislike for himself, especially in the Senate, without at the same time building up any strong group of pro-Hoover partisans. Take also into consideration the fact that Hoover's fine executive mind does not seem to be the kind that functions well in contact with a legislative group—this is Hoover's first experience of the kind—and you have a large part of the explanation of the Hoover difficulties.

One must add that Hoover still doesn't know very much about politics and that no one thinks—wherever he finds it—that he is getting good political advice. It's the sort of advice which told him that it would be a master political stroke to appoint Parker to the supreme court. The old complaint that Hoover was timid is heard again. He still hesitates to make strong statements on controversial issues and generally makes none. And so he must depend, upon such spokesmen as Senator Simon Fess of Ohio, who carried the bid for the administration in the Parker fight. It is sad but true that the best thinkers and the best orators in the Senate—Borah, Norris and Tom Walsh, for example—are seldom on the Hoover side of any fence.

The play, "Stray Cats," a farce comedy in three acts, directed by Miss Ernestine Allmon, presented by the Senior class on Friday May 23, at the city hall was a huge success.

The cast was as follows: Billy, Lee Graves; Dick Skinner, Willis Plant; Kitty Baker, Louise ee; Tom Skinner, Comer Rounton; Jennie Long, Louise Price; eona Brooks, Madge Schooley; Wanda Taylor, Mozelle Dollar; Harry B. S. Skinner, William Pool; Dr. Patterson, Ronald Smith.

The play was centered around three cousins Tom, Dick and Harry, who each tried to get the four and one-half million dollars left them by their Aunt Mary, providing that they were married by the twenty-third. If they were not married by that time, the money was to go to a home for stray cats. Dick Skinner became so excited that he proposed to three women, only to find later that he was in love with his stenographer, Kitty Baker. The clever way in which he managed to get out of his predicament kept the audience laughing continuously.

Madge Schooley, as Leona Brooks, and Comer Rounton, as Tom Skinner, also made a rush for the money, but Dick was a little too swift for them. The three girls whom Dick had proposed to agreed among themselves to refuse him, but each one tried to hold him to his promise. Dick outwitted his two cousins just in time to marry his charming stenographer, with whom he really was in love all the time, and received the money left him by his aunt.

William Pool, as Harry B. S. Skinner, the country cousin, starred in a comedy part.

Between acts were attractive choruses composed of Faye Jones, Mozelle Dollar, Louise Robertson, Julia Beardon, Margaret Porter, Maxine Cupp, Annie Sue Andrus, Dorothy Wright, Katherine Matthews, Louise Price, Annabel Philbrick, Claudia Coop, Rema Sparks, Zilpha Keith, Madge Schooley, and Berdie Rae Ellis. Music was furnished by the Ace High Rhythm Boys.

George Hutson President of the class presented Miss Allmon with a wrist watch and Miss Henry with a box of candy in appreciation of the work they did toward making the play a success.

News From Our Alumni.

Records made by former students of Hope serve as inspiration to the SENIORS of 1930.

Albert Graves, who was valedictorian of the class of 1926, is still doing the splendid type of work which won for him the highest honor of the class. He is president of the Senior class of the Dormitory Council at Hendrix-Henderson.

Among those making the honor roll at Hendrix-Henderson are Jeannette Witt, Graydon Griffin, and James Montgomery. Montgomery is editor-in-chief of the college paper, "The Profile," for next year, and Graydon Griffin has been elected business manager for that publication.

At Galloway College Frances Patterson and Elizabeth Greene, who were honor students of Hope last year, are making unusually good records in scholarship. Miss Greene, who was valedictorian of last year's class, is one of fifteen students who have made A's in all her subjects, a record achieved by a freshman.

Willoughby Smith, who is a junior at the University of Texas, is an honor student. Her sister, Willoughby Smith, is also doing good work at the University of Texas.

eleven this coming season. Jack Robison is plugging away at the University of Arkansas. Jack made a letter on the football squad last season and is in line for the first team this season. (You should see him now. He weighs twelve pounds more than a horse.)

Looking on the honor roll of the University of Arkansas, we find Ivis Brummett's name. Ivis is studying to be an engineer.

It seems as though the University of Arkansas has claimed quite a number of graduates of Hope High School, for James L. Rodges is there, also, to get his degree in engineering.

Then there are a few who have chosen to build happy love nests, among them. Virginia Pritchard, Reagan Cornelius, Winnie City, Oscar Browning and Mildred Jones.

John Wimberly who now has a position with the Arkansas State Highway Department, made an enviable record the two years that he was in Ouachita College, Arkadelphia.

Jeannette Witt is a very popular co-ed, at Hendrix-Henderson College where she will get her A. B. degree next year.

Helen Betts and Edith Lewis seem to be enjoying life teaching school. If they teach as well as they learned—they're O. K.

Horace Kennedy has made letters in football, basketball and track at Arkansas,asketball.

Pansy Wimberly will finish in music at Henderson State Teachers College at Arkadelphia this coming year. Pansy is one of Professor Harwood's most promising students.

Alene Horton is studying music at Lindenwood, St. Charles, Mo. Lawrence Martin has recently distinguished himself in dramatic arts at Chicago. Also, Lawrence has been an outstanding athlete at Henderson-Brown for the past three years, having won a place on the college all-state mythical football eleven this past season.

Ouchita has among its most popular students—Harry Hipp, who was voted the wittiest student in Hope High, back in '27. Harry still has a wise crack for every occasion.

Bruce McKee has a position with the Arkansas State Highway Department. He plans to enter school again this fall in South Carolina, having already gone two years at the University of Arkansas.

Frances and Willoughby Smith are in school at Texas University.

Selma Lee Bartlett has been one of the most popular co-eds on the Ouachita College campus for the past three years, and has made splendid grades in all her work.

Ida Mae Cannon, charming and gracious as ever, is studying at Henderson State Teachers College, Arkadelphia.

John Owens has two years of good work to his credit at Texas A. & M., and plans to return this fall to resume his studies after a year's absence. Nothing like perseverance!

Hope Bennett has finished Hendrix-Henderson College and is teaching school. Hope is one of the few girls from Hope who have finished their college education within four years after their being graduated from high school.

Albert Graves, valedictorian of his class in '26, finishes Hendrix-Henderson College this year with still more honors, and plans to continue his studies in Harvard's Law School.

David Finley is a graduate of University of Arkansas and now has a splendid position with a firm of certified accountants in St. Louis.

Austin Foster finishes this year at Texas A. & M. Vincent Foster is attending Texas A. & M.

Junior-Senior Banquet Is Held

Annual Event Held at Local Hotel on Evening of May 16

On the evening of May 16, the Juniors gave their annual banquet at the Hotel Barlow with the members of the Senior Class as honor guests. At 9 o'clock the two classes and members of the faculty were ushered into the private dining room where places were laid for 132. Crepe paper of many colors formed a canopy to represent the top of a circus tent. Hugh pictures adorned the walls and the barkers, Frank Lowmors and Leslie Coffman, called the attention of the crowd to the many unique and interesting creatures that might be seen in the side show.

Talbot Field, Jr., acting as ring-leader of the circus, welcomed the guests and requested that they enter into the festivities with the spirit of true trouper. George Hutson, president of the Senior class, responded in his inimitable manner.

Carroll Hamsley told of his thrills as a big game hunter in Africa. Edward Bader, game some glimpses into the life of a lion tamer, and Thomas Ruggles told of his experiences as a circus manager.

A PERFECT DAY

When you come to end of your high school years,
And you sit alone with your thought—
While the chimes ring out with a carol gay,
For the joys that the years have brought—
Do you think what the end of this SENIOR Year
Can mean to the class tonight—

Baseball men looked upon the situation as somewhat freakish last year when two castoffs, Lefty O'Doul of the Phillies and Les Fosseca of the Indians slugged their way to the big league batting championships. The wise ones said they would not have a chance to repeat, yet the end of May finds both well up in the vanguard of the pack with O'Doul especially showing every inclination to carry on where he left off in 1929. Fosseca, unable to start because of ill health, has recovered rapidly, resumed his regular post and heavy stickwork.

Four an dwenty teachers
Trying to cut our throats.
When the tests are over we all begin to yell

We'd rather go to—

"OUT OUR WAY"

America's Most Widely Read Comic

FORTY MILLION people can't be wrong! That is the estimated number of readers of that great comic feature, "Out Our Way," by J. R. (Jim) Williams.

It appears in this paper and more than 600 others throughout the country. Surveys have shown that more than 90 per cent of the newspaper readers follow it daily.

Why does this comic have such an appeal? We think the answer will be found at the right.

To Jim Williams, the world is filled with "folks"—not persons. He excels in human interest. With pathos and comedy, humor and tragedy his drawings reflect life as it really is. He can produce a robust chuckle or a wistful smile. His characters—kids or cowboys, mothers or machinists—are unfailingly human.

As Eugene Field or James Whitcomb Riley pictured life in poetry, Jim Williams depicts it on the drawing board.

SOCIETY

If never a sorrow came to us, and never a care we knew; If every hope were realized, and every dream came true; If only joy were found on earth and no one ever sighed, And never a friend proved false to us, and never a loved one died, And never a burden bore us down, soul-sick and weary, too, We'd yearn for tests to prove our worth and tasks for us to do.

makes this Fox Movietone romantic musical drama the best entertainment of this class that will be seen here in many a month.

Irving Cummings, who revealed his directorial genius in "Behind That Curtain," far surpassed this outstanding production with "Cameo Kerby." The two stars, J. Harold Murray and Norma Terris, sang beautifully, acted intelligently, and embodied their roles with a charm that held last night's audience in its spell from their first appearance to the final fadeout.

The songs include "Romance," "After a Million Dreams," "Home Is Heaven," "Thankard and Bowl," and "In A Peaceful Man," all reveal unusual talent in the composers, and at least four of them undoubtedly are headed for the best-seller list.

Cummings revealed his genius for beautiful backgrounds, an altho photography is superb. "Cameo Kerby" is a great picture, easily one of the best of the year.

Many Song Hits In "Paramount on Parade"

Little Mitzi Green, that pert eight year old Miss who, among other things, sang "Sing You Sinners" in the musical comedy picture, "Honey," contributes one of the cleverest impersonations ever seen on the screen in that intimate and thoroughly jolly and delightful Hollywood party, "Paramount on Parade."

Maurice Chevalier, the inimitable Parisian bad boy, had just sung in his best manner a new number, "All I Want Is Just One Girl." In an amusing sequence which takes place in a Paris park, then Skeets Gallagher introduces Mitzi who proceeds to sing this song as Charley Mack, the famous Black Crow, would sing it. To say that Mitzi merely puts over this number is to do her an injustice. For in some indescribable manner she does one of the best bits of song and character mimicry it is possible to imagine. And then just to round out her performance, Mitzi dresses herself in Chevalier's costume and sings this song just as Chevalier himself had done a few minutes before.

But, in all fairness, Mitzi's scene is but one of many delightful sequences with which this picture is abundantly supplied. There is Chevalier and Evelyn Brent demonstrating the origin of the Apache dance, (this is distinctly a surprise number, one of the best in the show) adorable Nancy Carroll "Dancing to Save Her Soul," Harry Green as a big, bold, bad bull fighter, Helen Kane, to "hoop-hoopa-doop," and George Bancroft giving a convincing, and uproarious demonstration of the manner in which he would like to act at a boring party. Of course, Clara Bow, the famous "It" girl does her stuff. This time she's kept busy being true to the Navy, Warner Oland as Fu Manchu commits a couple of careless murders which brings the Philo Vance of William Powell, the Sherlock Holmes of Clive Brook and the Sergeant Heath of Eugene Pallette to the scene of the crime. Oh yes, Jack Oakie, who is kept very busy in this picture, is the victim of the insidious Fu Manchu.

A number of Paramount's best known directors worked on this picture including Ernest Lubitsch, Edmund Goulding, Victor Schertzinger, Edward Sutherland, Frank Tuttle and Dorothy Arzner.

"Paramount on Parade" which was produced under the supervision of Elsie Janis, the internationally famous stage star, opened yesterday for a three day engagement at the Saenger theatre.

Meeting Interesting People
 Newspaper work is wonderful. We hear you meet so many interesting people. Among them, we have met Herr Arthur Bulow, former manager of Max Schmeling. Herr Arthur Bulow will beat Sharkey, and we hear it because he likes Max. "Max is like iron," says Bulow.

Another interesting man, who you like him or not, is Jack Sharkey. The sailorman says he will knock out Max inside of five rounds. "And I don't care how strong he is," sayeth the sailorman.

Another interesting man is Babe Ruth. The Babe says it's a cinch the races for the flag in both leagues are going to be hot stuff this summer. And he doesn't think the Athletics' infield is so wonderful.

You can't deny John J. McGraw is interesting. John says that even if the Giants did win a season series from the Cubs, those Chicago boys are going to be dangerous when their pitchers start working. Which also might be said of the Boston Braves.

Base-Legged Helen
 OUR own Helen Willis Moody shocked the French people last year when she went out to play sans stockings. Just to let them know she wasn't fooling our own Helen Willis Moody is doing the same thing this year. The French are so easily shocked.

Frank Wykoff of the University of Southern California gave the A. A. U. something else to worry about the other day when he ran 100 yards in Simpson's time, 9.2-5 seconds. Maybe the A. A. U., which is an interesting body of men, will discover that Frank took too many steps and it's not official.

Jack Dempsey isn't champion any more, but he's still interesting. He says Jack Sharkey is invincible against anybody he thinks he can whip and that he's positive he can smother Schmeling.

Young Jack Thompson ought to give Jackie Fields a return match, of course. And at the same time for which the pair recently fought for the title, name-

Coast Unknown Breaks Mile Record

Ralph Hill (left), comparatively unknown University of Oregon runner, in a dual meet with the University of Washington recently broke a 17-year-old American record by negotiating the mile in 4 minutes 12.4 seconds. Hiss was pushed by Rufus Kiser (right), Washington star, whose time was 4 minutes 13 seconds, also hattering the old mark.

Getz of Alfred in 4:13.4, but until this spring no one outside of Oregon—possibly Bill Hayward, Hill's veteran coach—had any idea that the fastest American mile was being developed rapidly in the Northwest. Ralph Hill and his brother Clarence, 23, and a good two-miler, come from the ranch country near Klamath Falls, Ore. Ralph is 5 feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 145, toughened by outdoor farm life.

Ralph never impressed anybody until Bill Hayward took hold of him. In his last year in high school, Ralph won the mile at a county meet in 5:12 but in less than four years—his third at college, he has cut all but a full minute from this time. As a freshman, Clarence was a better miler than Ralph.

Ralph Hill had never beaten Kiser until he turned in his record mile. Last season, the Washington star beat his Oregon rival twice, in the northern division of the Pacific Coast Conference championship at Eugene and again at Chicago.

Hill's mile clipped one-fifth of a second from the registered American outdoor mark of 4:12-3-5, made by Norman Taber of Brown at Cambridge, July 16, 1915. It also displaced the intercollegiate record of 4:14-2-5, set by John Paul Jones of Cornell, also at Cambridge, on May 31, 1913. Paavo Nurmi of Finland holds the world's record of 4:10-2-5, made at Stockholm in 1923.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lacy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose. Stop suffering from constipation. Reds Get Red-Head

NEW YORK, May 29.—(A)—Larry Benton red-headed right-hander, got only secondary notice in a trade recently which brought Hugie Critz, Cincinnati second baseman, to the New York Giants.

It was Critz and the fact that he is a little southern star rounds out for the New York Giants one of the greatest that drew all of the attention in the infield in major league baseball that drew all of the attention.

But Benton might do the Reds a great lot of good before his major league usefulness is ended. The last game he pitched in Giant livery was his best of the season, and he gave flashes of the brilliancy that enabled him in 1928 to win 25 games while losing six.

William Otto, a Wisconsin farmer, got his trousers caught in a machine of his own invention, which strangled him with the exception of his shoes. He was not injured.

Double Bill For Fight Fans Tonight

Winner of Shimmy-Fox Battle Will Fight Hall Here Next Week

For the entertainment of fight fans at the skating rink tonight, promoters Robins and Campbell have arranged to stage a big double show featuring Bill Gardner of Mt. Ida, and Joyce Clark of Little Rock, in an eight-round semi-final. For the main event Kid Shimmy, of Detroit, will battle

Bully Fox, a Louisiana flash. The winner of the Shimmy-Fox exhibition will be matched with Johnny Hall, of Little Rock, for next week's card, promoter Robins announced today.

More than thirty rounds of boxing will be seen at the rink tonight, and many good fighters are listed. With this big card, many fans are expected to be present to witness the program.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(P)—If two youthful mile runners from the great Pacific Northwest come Eastward to renew their duel in the National Collegiate championships at Chicago, June 6-7, the ballyhooed sprint talent may be obliged to move over and make room for them in the spotlight. The latest sensation of the running world is Ralph Hill, 21-year-old junior at the University of Oregon, who eclipsed the American outdoor, as well as intercollegiate record by reeling off the mile in 4:12-2-5, May 17, in a dual meet with the University of Washington at Eugene.

His rival, whom he defeated in this race for the first time, is Rufus Kiser, already nationally known as the N. C. A. mile champion in 1928 and previously the best collegian miler on the

Ruth Hits 6 Homers In Two Days, Ahead of 1927 Schedule

"Babe" Ruth earns some of the $30,000 the New York Yankees are paying him this year by slugging out six home runs in two days.

NEW YORK, May 29.—(A)—The lesser fellows before whom pitchers don't cower got the jump on the big "Babe" this year, but Ruth finally proved that a swing will tell.

By slugging out six home runs in two days of an engagement the New York Yankees had with the Philadelphia Athletics, the big hitter found himself back at the top of the home run hitters in the American league. His hitting also put him on an even keel with Hack Wilson, the Chicago Cubs' compact load of dynamite.

Ruth's mad hitting not only created a record for which he has strived for some years, but also put him ahead of his schedule in 1927, the year he drove out 60 homers. It was not until May 28 of that year that the big hitter got his twelfth homer. This year's was registered, May 22.

The "Babe's" new record is the hitting of three homers in a single game during the regular season. Ruth had hit three twice in world series competition, but never before in a league game.

SILENT and UNSEEN BUT VITAL

—to the city's health comfort and cleanliness

IN the din of traffic . . . above the roaring trains that thunder by as they carry products of this area to distant markets . . . below the spinning wheels of thousands of automobiles on their way to the busy city . . . is the natural gas line suspended beneath this viaduct . . . and other viaducts throughout the area served by your gas company. Life's like that with a gas line. It has its ups and downs. Sometimes it's on top. Then again it's under. And all these variations are made at a tremendous expense to the company serving your city with this ideal fuel. There's not one viaduct, but many. But with the rise of operative costs, your gas bill does not increase. It is the company that bears the burden of the loss.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

NATALIE CONVINCED, jealous of her husband's friendship with BERNADINE LAMONT, leaves Alan to find out if he is really a friend or a foe.

She ran them over with perfunctory interest until she came to one of odd shape and distinctive coloring. Quickly she put the others aside and tore this one open. She knew that it was from Bernadine Lamont. Many such had come to the office.

Phillipa was always keen to read them. She wanted to know as much as she could about the relations of her employer with his most colorful client. For she had a very definite idea that Bernadine was a woman it would be as well to watch.

The letter was purely a business one. Bernadine directed Alan to buy certain stock for her. She had received a tip on it, she said, from a most reliable source, and gave initials that few in the Street would have had any trouble in identifying.

Phillipa's lips curled in scorn over Bernadine's lack of business acumen. "If I got a tip from that source, I'd be darned careful how I peddled it around," she sneered. "Lucky thing for her that Alan's honest or she would soon learn herself right out of tips."

She thought, too, that if she had some money she would play the tip herself. But it was against the rules of the office, and it wouldn't be worth the risk of incurring Alan's displeasure. The biggest moves on the market were not tipped off in night clubs, even to the favorites like "The Lamont."

However, she sighed over it, for she was something of an opportunist and hated to pass up what she knew was a sure bet. Bernadine had had these tips before, and always they had netted her a substantial profit.

She got up and took the letter, together with other papers, into Alan's office. Just inside the door she stopped and looked around. Natalie had been doing things to the room. The window shades were evenly lowered, the chairs were moved, a picture that had hung slightly awry for some time was straightened—it was placed back of Alan's chair and though Phillipa often had noticed that it was crookedly hung, she had not bothered to put it right—and the desk was put in order.

Phillipa went over to it and stood surveying Natalie's work. There was little on the desk to place, for Alan kept it fairly clear. But he had appeared to leave on a sudden impulse and Phillipa had several times reminded herself that she must come in and clear off his desk.

But she had delayed, and Natalie

"I've got to keep them apart," Phillipa exclaimed, almost aloud. But how? How?

Phillipa was sitting, deep in thought, her gaze fixed on a blank piece of paper in her type-writer when some mail that had just arrived, was brought to her. Alan's letters, mostly.

She ran them over with perfunctory interest until she came to one of odd shape and distinctive coloring. Quickly she put the others aside and tore this one open. She knew that it was from Bernadine Lamont. Many such had come to the office.

Phillipa was always keen to read them. She wanted to know as much as she could about the relations of her employer with his most colorful client. For she had a very definite idea that Bernadine was a woman it would be as well to watch.

But she had delayed, and Natalie

Phillipa always took Alan's incoming telephone calls. She was thankful now, when the operator had switched the call to her desk, that Natalie was in his private office and could not hear what she said. Even so she was careful not to mention Alan's name, mindful of the girls in the outer office.

She did not want them to know—if it could be avoided—that she kept the fact of Natalie's presence there from him.

He told her that he would not return to the office again that day, and she was so thankful to have him stay away that she did not even ask when he would see him.

He thought it was sweet of her to let him alone, and hung-up the receiver with a feeling of gratitude toward her for not insisting he come to her apartment for dinner.

After that Phillipa was able to apply herself to her neglected work with sufficient diligence to get enough of it done so that she could soon turn her thoughts again to the winning of the man she wanted for her husband.

Natalie had gone, Phillipa had smiled triumphantly over her departure.

She had seen penitence in Natalie's eyes, knew that she was ready to plead with Alan to forgive her. She remembered that Alan had said he had not told Natalie the truth because he had made up his mind that she was incapable of believing it. Let him once find out that she would welcome it...

She opened another window and only when the room had grown chilly, did she close them.

She had been, for several moments, indifferent to the change in the temperature. For she was warm with the excitement of a scheme that had popped into her mind all of a sudden while she was thinking of Natalie's visit there.

She was working it out with magical ease. She could tell Alan that Natalie had come in after he telephoned, and that she did not know what she wanted. She could say that Natalie had acted as though she'd come to renew the quarrel.

THE rest—well, there was always a chance that any plot would fail. But this one was worth trying out. She took up the letter from Bernadine and scanned it carefully. Yes, it could be done!

She got up and started to lock the door... better to get her own things. She went out and got what she wanted. Back in the private office she locked the door, with as little noise as possible.

Then she flew to Alan's desk and seated herself there. She began her work with infinite patience. Should Alan interrupt her—he was not likely to, but should he—she was prepared to say that she'd locked herself in for a little cry. It did not take long, with all her care, to complete her task. She held the finished product up before her and studied it with growing satisfaction and elation.

Certainly Alan would not discover what she had done, she assured herself.

"It's fortunate that I could pick a bum stock that would fit in the same space," she reflected gloatingly.

THIS WOMAN IN 4 WEEKS LOST 19 POUNDS OF FAT

Here's a letter written October 21, 1929, by Mrs. Fred Barringer of Lewistown, Montana, that ought to be read by every overweight woman in America.

"Gentlemen: I first saw your advertisement in a Billings, Montana, paper and decided to try Kruschen Salts.

"I started taking them every morning as directed as I was very much overweight and wanted to reduce. I had tried going on a diet but would get so hungry that my diet would not last long, so I decided to give 'Kruschen Salts' a fair trial. The day I started to take them I weighed 256 pounds, and at present, which has been just four weeks, I weigh 239 pounds.

And I must say, I feel better in every way, besides looking much better. Kruschen Salts had a decided effect upon the quantity of food I eat, and stimulated my desire to be active.

I have recommended Kruschen Salts to many of my friends, and have a number of them taking them. Salts!

May all large people, men and women, who want to reduce, an easy way, give Kruschen Salts a fair trial. I am sure it will benefit any one.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts lasts four weeks, costs $1.00. Ward & Son, or any drug store in America.

*An investigation conducted by the Association of Life Insurance Medical Directors and the Actuarial Society of America revealed the fact that the death rate increases practically 1% for every pound of excess weight carried between the ages of 40 and 44 years. In other words, a man 40 pounds overweight at this age has only 60% of the expectancy of life of a man of normal weight. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Too many persons milking cows expect them to pay entirely unreasonable dividends. The dairyman who has been in the business several years expects only a reasonable profit and they figure the value of the off spring and fertilizer too.

The dairy cow is simply a market for feed. The problem of the dairyman is to learn which feeds he can produce most economically, and which the cow can use to best advantage, then produce these feeds in large quantities.

If you pin your faith to a good milk cow she will not disappoint you. The successful dairyman of the country.

Scrub Cows

Good feeding comes first in cow management. It is unfair to call any cow a scrub because of her low production if she has not been adequately fed. Having given every cow in the herd a fair chance it is then best to cull some cows if any are found that do not make a satisfactory return. This enables the dairyman to send his feed to market through more profitable cows.

The best way to find the poor cows is to be a member of a cow testing association. If one is located so that it is not possible to operate an association, the next best way is to use a milk scale and a record sheet. With these conveniently located in the barn the time for using them is of small concern when compared with the benefits derived.

Most Milk Per Acre

No sooner does a dairyman learn to feed his cows well than he realizes the relation between crop production, good ratings, and profit. In other words, he begins to measure milk production in terms of what it brings per acre of crops grown for feeding. When all dairymen do this it will revolutionize the production of milk from the standpoint of economy of production.

Earlier in the series we stated that the basis of a good ration for cows is a succulent feed and a legume hay. We have repeatedly advised dairymen to find out what succulent feed and legume hay they can grow best and then to recognize their crop rotation sufficiently to produce these feeds in abundance.

One of the leading dairy husbandmen in this country has said, "It is doubtful if dairying should be under a commercial scale where succulent feed of some kind is not available." This means that if one cannot have some kind of silage, roots, soiling crops, or pasture, his cows cannot be made to approach closely their inherited productive capacities.

It Pays

... and pays BIG to follow a businesslike FERTILIZER PROGRAM

THOUSANDS of farmers have found that it pays to follow a tested fertilizer program. At planting time they use a complete fertilizer—a high-analysis fertilizer, rich in nitrogen. Then when the young plants begin to feed heavily, they put out a top-dressing of Arcadian Sulphate of Ammonia, containing 20.56 per cent nitrogen—all soluble, all usable by the plants.

Arcadian comes in triple-ply, moisture-proof bags. It is always fine and dry—easy to distribute. Its ammonia is not lost by leaching—one application lasts through an ordinary growing season. To be sure of your supply, order Arcadian from your dealer when you buy your mixed fertilizer.

Farmers everywhere are invited to write to The Barrett Company for helpful information about their nitrogen fertilizer problem. Address our nearest office.
